Andrew Graham-Yooll : A State of Fear: Memories of Argentina's Nightmare (Eland Classics) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised A State of Fear: Memories of

Argentina's Nightmare (Eland Classics):

For ten hair-raising years, Andrew Graham-Yooll was the news editor of the Buenos Aires Herald. All around him friends and acquaintances were 'disappearing'. Although the slightest mistake might have caused his own disappearance, he didn't shrink from getting first-hand experience of this war of terror. He attended clandestine guerrilla conferences, helped relatives trace the missing, and took tea with a torturer who wasn't ashamed to make the most chilling of confessions. ""I have never read any book that so conveys what it is like to live in a state of permanent fear.""--Graham Greene
