Tahir Jahangir : A Travel Companion to the Northern Areas of Pakistan before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised A Travel Companion to the Northern Areas of Pakistan:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. More of a travel journal than a guideBy Umair LateefThe thing is if you are traveling to this part of the world then you need all the information out there. I will consider this as one of the important books you may need to buy. But this alone is not suffice. It is rather be called a traveling journal with some brief detail about the area and approach. But reading this book is not a waste of time, you may gain some information which you may not find in any other place.I will highly recommend using Lonely Planet's second edition of Trekking to Korakoram Hindukush as your primary source.

The Northern Areas of Pakistan are truly magnificent in their beauty ranging from majestic mountains that kiss the sky, enchanting valleys, and fascinating terrain with forests, rivers, and glaciers. These remote areas exhibit a tranquil sense of magic with the absence of commercialization and an ethnic culture relatively unchanged by modernity. This volume presents an account as well as a guide to travelling in the Northern Areas for the inexperienced as well as the seasoned traveller. The author writes about trekking, accommodation, food, landscape and the overall travelling conditions. This is an excellent guide to the traveller on a budget of 20-30 dollars a day and is useful as a backpacker tool. The book is both a travelogue, detailing a series of journeys, as well as a guide and is essential for anyone interested in this untarnished region. Historical and social information is provided along with a key that designates precise distances and security conditions. Thirty-three photographs showing the splendour of the Karakorams and the Western Himalayas are included.

About the Author Tahir Jahangir is the Chief Executive of Hala Enterprises Limited and the Chairman of the Towel Manufacturers Association of Pakistan for three consecutive years. He is the travel writer for The Friday Times, Lahore.
