Gary Helton : Dundalk (MD) (Images of America) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Dundalk (MD) (Images of America):

The book is great except it's about Dundalk yet there are no photos of Dundalk Senior High School. I went there and really expected them to be in this book. Instead the have photos of Patapsco and Sparrows Point who were rivals at time. Other than that, this book is filled with history that even growing up there, we were never taught about in school.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Excellent summary of Dundalk from early settlers through the 1960's, 70's, and 80's. Many Great Memories. By Dale Klemm This book brought back all of the great memories I had growing up in "Old Dundalk" in the 1960's and 70's. This book is also a great resource for local history buffs on how Dundalk came to be - original land grants, early settlers, industry, and a review of local landmarks. Best part was recognizing some family members in the pictures of Dundalk from the 1920's and 30's. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Dundalk!! By Michael Snyder Lots of good history in here, gave this to my mother as a Christmas gift she loves it!!

Dundalk of today was born in 1895 when an Irish businessman affixed a handmade sign to a newly constructed freight station, proclaiming the name of this Baltimore County community. From then on, the area developed into a hotbed of industry and military activity. The Pennsylvania Steel Company fired up its blast furnaces at Sparrows Point. Brickmakers Burns and Russell, whose firm dates back to 1790, began manufacturing on a 125-acre parcel near what is now Logan Village. During the War of 1812, British forces invaded Patapsco Neck and were repelled by local militia. People lucky enough to make Dundalk their home over the years have fond memories of Riverview Park on Colgate Creek, a popular family amusement park along what is now Broening Highway, and of playing and relaxing at William McShanes Maryland Swimming Club, which boasted first-rate clay tennis courts and a bathing beach. More than 200 vintage photographs are included in this volume, assembled from private collections and the files of the Dundalk- Patapsco Neck Historical Society Museum. They feature current and former landmarks like Harbor Field, Fort Holabird, the Brentwood Inn, Todd House, Bay Shore Park, WAYE Radio, and the Lyceum Theatre. Equally important are the images of everyday people, many of whom impacted the community through their character and profession.
