The dimensions were clearly stated in the item description, I just didn't take the time to really notice how bit those dimensions would be when opened up completely. It is well constructed and I like that it is laminated so you can write on it, then wipe the marker off. It will fit my needs, even if it is a little smaller than I would have liked.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Love the Laminated MapsBy L.K. CliftonLove these laminated maps. I have been doing them for each of our trips. They are so easy to see and fold, etc plus do not tear or gets crumpled. Our cars have GPSs but it is always a good idea, in my opinion, to carry a map as well.3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Spill-proof, accurate and fun!By Madeline R.I am really old-school about "real maps". I bought them for the entire Midwest and all southern states when we moved to Chicago from the west five years ago and have been using them on road trips ever since. When our family went to a drive-through coffee establishment early one morning this spring break in eastern Kansas, our barista said, "I remember maps! Where are you going? Don't you have a smart phone?" In fact, the three of us had four of them between us, but if you want to get a real sense of the distance between places then a "real map" is the ne plus ultra. I placed six of these RM maps border-to-border on a hotel bed our first night of a 2,150 mile journey looking at colleges and our son finally appreciated (if not the effort we were making on his behalf, then at least) the journey he'd be making to and from Chicago to the college of his choice. Happy Travels!
