Gene Buel, Scott Buel : Marine City (Images of America) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Marine City (Images of America):

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Loved all the pictures.By Nana PorterI loved it, especially all the pictures. Having lived in Marine City during the 60s 70s, I enjoyed reading more about it's early history. Also recognizing many of the places in the pictures. I definitely recommend it.1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Great deal !!By waynesgalGreat book. Great price !!

Marine City is nestled on the banks of the beautiful St. Clair River, half a mile away from Sombra, Ontario, Canada.

Today, it is a small town with strong American values, much like it always has been. Full of industrious people who keep America running, this town has a long history of hard work and skilled labor that is reflected in its rich heritage of shipbuilders, sailors, farmers, factory workers, and enterprising businesspeople. Their stories are shared throughout this book in rare and seldom seen photographs from the 1870s through the 1930s. From the perspectives of the people who lived and worked here, Images of America: Marine City shows a tradition of shipbuilding and sailing, as well as life around town, documenting the important role Marine City played in the early development of the entire Great Lakes shipping industry.

About the Author Gene Buel is a lifelong resident of Marine City. A Rotarian for over 40 years, he has contributed to local publications, such as A Short History of Marine City Michigan and the River District Bicentennial Photo Collection. His grandson Scott inherited his love of history, boats, trains, and old photographs from his grandfather. Together, they operate the website Scenes from the Past.
