Huw Kingston : Mediterranean: A Year Around a Charmed and Troubled Sea; 17 Countries and 14,000 km by Kayak, Foot, Rowboat and Bike before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Mediterranean: A Year Around a Charmed and Troubled Sea; 17 Countries and 14,000 km by Kayak, Foot, Rowboat and Bike:

being held on a Turkish military island after inadvertently landing to camp, meeting an amazing one-legged hiker while crossing the Alps and arriving dog-tired and starving by kayak to Africa after local kindnesses beat back British and Spanish political differences over Gibraltar to allow a crossing of the Straits of Gibraltar.

`...Huw's travel tale becomes a story of human kindness and resilience'. Australia Geographic Outdoor Magazine ----- `...this is a must read'. Outer Edge ----- `...Huw's many experiences in the countries he visited are both insightful and entertaining. An inspiring read and proof the world is still full of adventure'. Australian Geographic Magazine ----- '...if this book doesn't get the travel juices going, then nothing will!' Burnley Express ----- 'Charming tale of a maritime adventure. ...engaging and insightful book...a story of enthusiasm... This charming book also gives a beautifully written account of the people the author met along the way, and paints a picture of the wonderful landscapes he encountered'. Nautilus Telegraph ----- '...a good read filled with how the 'Aussie' Huw overcame many obstacles in his quest to travel around the littoral of the Mediterranean by human power alone. ...this is a colourful documentary aided by a number of pictures...' Royal Naval Sailing Association ----- '...well illustrated...will have you chuckling at the humour. This is very much a book for adventurers, avoiding the tourist hotspots, of which there are plenty, and, instead, meeting a wide range of people off the beaten track'. Canoeist ----- 'This book details that journey - and much more. ... As one follows the remarkable journey so the character of the author begins to appear, there is an element of fun...contains excellent photographs highlighting the journey...' The Munro Society Newsletter ----- `...dozens of intrepid exploits... have made Huw something of a legend among outdoor adventurers' Highlife Magazine About the Author www.wildhorizons.com.au www.huwkingston.com
