Humans remain endlessly fascinated by falling water, whether in the form of a towering cascade like Yosemite Falls, or smaller cascades in little mountain niches. Despite the difficult road into the trail head, for example, the hike to Holy Jim Falls, a small 30 foot falls in Orange county is one of the most popular hikes in southern California. In this new Moon Outdoors book by Ann Marie Brown, you can find literally hundreds of such falls scattered about California. From the most famous (Yosemite, Bridal Veil, and McWay Falls) to obscure or little noticed gems that require miles of hiking to get to, this book is a comprehensive guide to the best the Golden State has to offer. Like other books in the Moon Outdoors series, this one divides California into fourteen geographical regions. Each has its own character (from California Deserts to Coastal Redwoods and the High Sierras). Each chapter also offers descriptions of several falls that you can access by car, bike, or on foot. Most of these are found on hikes, but the hikes tend to be short and most can be completed in a half day or less. Only a few are best done as backpack trips. Each chapter includes an area map that gives the approximate location of every waterfall in the chapter, and driving descriptions under each listing are detailed and accurate. So if you like waterfalls for the positive ions they emit, or simply because they are beautiful to look at, this is the book to get to help explore what the state has to offer. Highly recommended. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great Book By Elizabeth Woros I really love this book. It was in great condition, arrived on time and the contents are good.
