Ben Westwood : Moon Galpagos Islands (Moon Handbooks) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Moon Galpagos Islands (Moon Handbooks):

6 of 6 people found the following review helpful. Excellent book!By Carol Becnell used this book for our 5-day cruise through the Galapagos Islands as a guide. I found it very worthwhile describing the different islands.5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. The best of a small group of Galapagos guidebooksBy CustomerSolid guidebook with info on islands, wildlife, towns and tours. I enjoyed reading it along the way, though its wildlife section could be a bit better.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Good review of the islandsBy MoxieFriend loved it. We're planning a trip as soon as we get some money together.

Sea lions and iguanas sunbathe side by side, penguins and turtles swim together offshore, and giant tortoises wander freely. The Galpagos is both a glimpse of life before human civilization and a reminder of its fragile beauty. This is the trip of a lifetime. It will leave you with a new sense of wonder and some great stories to share. Expert traveler Ben Westwood tells you everything you need to know to make this trip possible in Moon Galpagos Islands: How to get there, how long it will take, and where to stop along the way including information on Quito and Guayaquil How to choose the best means of transportation, including cruises, diving tips, and land tours Background on the diverse wildlife of the Galpagos including how and where to see each animal

About the Author Ben Westwood dreamed of being a writer and musician from an early age. Growing up in England, he combined the two by studying music and getting involved in student journalism in London. He wrote his first travel journal during a backpacking trip through Southeast Asia. After graduating from college, Ben decided to follow his passion for travel; with an English-language teaching qualification under his belt, he set off for Ecuador in 1998. In the year he spent there, he fell in love with the country and one of its citizens. He returned to the UK newly married to study a postgraduate diploma at the country's top journalism school, City University. Ben worked for five years for The Daily Telegraph and Telegraph.co.uk as a travel journalist and online travel editor, writing articles on everything from encounters with Maoist guerrillas in Nepal to encounters with (equally scary) drunken Brits in Greece. After a brief stint working in adventure tourism, Ben moved to Ecuador with his wife and children in 2007 to combine his passions for teaching and travel writing (and to avoid traveling to the office on English trains). Since then, he has contributed to the The Rough Guide to South America on a Budget and The Daily Telegraph. Ben currently teaches journalism, travel writing, English language, and the history of popular music at UEES, one of Ecuador's best universities. He still finds time to sing and play the guitar, and has released one self-funded album, titled Keep Dreaming which is exactly what he intends to do.
