before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Mountain Maps
Presents: Cordillera Real Recreation Map, and Guide to the Inca Trails:

Waterproof map in color of the recreational areas around Lake Titicaca in Bolivia, including the famous Inca Trail. Designed to orient the traveler to the area's mountains, lakes, rivers and trails and their position in relation to departure points. Differentiates 6 kinds of roads, including paved roads, dirt roads and trails. Differentiates large from small towns. Shows mines, railroads, continuous and seasonal rivers, mountains (with altitudes in meters), flood plains and dry riverbeds, lakes, dams, and glaciers. Color changes and contour lines describe elevation changes. Contour intervals at 200 meters. Scale 1:150,000. Locator maps show the map area in relation to the entire country and the country in relation to South America. Printed on two sides. Reverse side includes travel tips and recommendations for the area, along with descriptions of the treks along the Choro, Takesi and Yunga Cruz trails. Produced with the assistance of the Secretaria Nacional de Turismo, Regional La Paz, the Federacion Boliviana de Ski y Andinismo, the Instituto Geographico Militar, and the Instituto Nacional de Arqueologia.
